This project constitutes collaborative research with indigenous peoples, and the research results will be incorporated into a project to improve the education, culture and social status of indigenous peoples. The principal investigator (PI) and co-principal investigators (co-PI) will adhere to the following ethical standards:

- 1. We will respect the privacy of the people who are cooperating with the survey (hereinafter referred to as “cooperators”) and local peoples, and respect traditional cultures (including knowledge, practices, and creative materials).
- 2. We will create surveys that aim to satisfy all involved with regard to research purposes, methods, and results.
- 3. The PI will be jointly responsible for the behavior of the co-PIs.
- 4. The investigators will be responsible for explaining the specific purpose of the survey and the intention of the questions when cooperators have any concerns.
- 5. We shall obtain consent from the cooperator or their guardian (in the case of underaged persons) about the following activities:
  - 5-1. Recording, taking pictures, taking video, borrowing and transferring documents, etc.
  - 5-2. The public or private use of names, images, videos, audio recordings, folk implements, work etc. of the obtained information
- 6. Investigators will not apply any pressure on cooperators to obtain consent.
- 7. It will be made clear to cooperators that they will be free to cancel their research cooperation and withdraw consent for the use of their media at any point in the survey.
- 8. Investigators will be allowed to promptly provide information that cooperators think will be beneficial, based on agreement of this with cooperators.
- 9. Based on agreement with the cooperating parties, we shall express acknowledgments in our reports and gain consent for this in advance (in the case of information that can be released).
- 10. During the process of publication, we shall confirm that cooperators have agreed to the publication of all information used.

I (cooperator) have received an explanation about the above. I understand this content and I agree to cooperate and participate in the investigation with [researcher name] of [affiliated organization].

This statement of consent shall be created and signed at the time of data collection, and each statement shall be confidential between the cooperator and the investigator.
